

Some years after she and John Smith said good-bye in Jamestown, Pocahontas went to England. She was still very much an Indian "princess" in the English fashions she wore there.

